A vital discussion of cultural upheaval – with a focus on the historical concept of possession that underpins Jungian thought and challenges Western notions of psychopathology; the implications of privileging this ethnicity or that religious ego over our shared global humanity; the force of personality in effecting spiritual awakening and societal change. (Mabel Dodge Luhan aficionados/un-aficionados: come!)

The Jungian International Training in Zurich Foundation (www.jitzurich.org) and the Inter-Regional Society of Jungian Analysts invite you to join us. Help sort out what “new religion” means, while being reminded of old practices and a calling out of zealotry – often a mark of secret uncertainty, a part of the old religious order. The new order may be one of less certainty and more openness to questioning...

Note that this roundtable is part of a 3 day conference, should you wish even greater immersion in the subject. For details, please visit www.jitzurich.org.

RSVP to Kathryn Cook-Deegan, kcd@cookdeegan.com, 202.738.0301, in Washington, DC.

Jungian International Training in Zurich Foundation (JITZ) is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit corporation. JITZ (jitzurich.org) was created in 2008 by several members in the United States, Canada and Switzerland of the Association of Graduate Analytical Psychologists (AGAP) (a member society of the International Association for Analytical Psychology (IAAP.org)) who wanted a vehicle through which they and others would be able to provide tax-deductible financial support (donations, sponsorships, annual giving, bequests, etc.) to the full-time, English language Jungian psychoanalytic training in Zurich. This type of training has been a historical tradition in Zurich since 1948 and is maintained today by the International School of Analytical Psychology (ISAPZurich.com), the training institute founded by AGAP, in 2004.

Donations, sponsorships etc. given to JITZ by US citizens, residents, and foreign nationals – to the extent of their US-generated income – are tax deductible.

David Barton, Co-Chair Wynette Barton, Treasurer Kate Burns, Co-Chair Kathryn Cook-Deegan, Barbara Lane, Vice Chair Murray Stein, Secretary Margot Estabrook Stienstra. Advisory members: Stefan Boethius, Paul Brutsche, John Desteian, Judith Harris, Dariane Pictet.
